

Inseperable Paradox

How can a relationship with the past exist in which memory functions as an active process, allowing continual reconsideration, rather than as a form of entombment, to which archives and museums are sometimes compared? (Green, 2006b: 54)

...distressing want for affection.

You are disappointed because, in your opinion, you don't receive enough physical affection and aren't able to experience enough erotic pleasure. This could lead you to seek consolation in other sensual pleasures or to distract yourself from this feeling of want through activities you find absorbing. At best, both of these will provide you with only temporary satisfaction. Psychological complaints could result from your...

TFW the only 2 ways you know how to deal with men are to present yourself as the ideal bastion of desirable femininity or to showcase your overt misandry until they get scared away

Masculinity

Withholding

Art and Sociability

Performativity privilege : those who have it but are still miserable

- + the inability to show up as yourself vs

- + the ability to withhold as a means of further protection

- ^ the benefit of not needing anyone other than yourself why we scare/confuse them: the power femme in heteronormativity Performativity that is honest more often than preconsidered or packaged (ie "improv"), exhibiting traits that are considered "theirs". Threatening to occupy their space = threatened emasculation.

Traits inherently occupied or deemed masculine:

It's all there is. Hey so I feel a tinsy bit weird and fast today like the weird where I'm thinking we shouldn't have done that I feel wasn't ready for that Nothing in my life yet, I just wanted to do something with you see what with the thing

Also not looking for forgiveness! I just wanted to let you know that I'm sorry for the way I always interpreted your friendship to mean something more. when you came to the Especially conclusion far before I did that we just been friends. I should have me, I swear. This is hard! Almost do awkward part. There was a night in there a couple years ago when we relationship that started with some alcohol ended with what I thought was consensual sex. I've come to realize now that I never really talked to about how you felt about that, and I just wanted to make sure that you
